

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING ABOUT
The Practice Of Safety

“I finished reading The Practice of Safety, then read it again. It is pure red meat, no fluff. You have improved the safety culture of the propane industry, one bite sized nugget at a time. Keep doing the right thing.”

– Ray Kazakewich, RegO Products

“I have been meaning to write and compliment you on your publication "The Practice of Safety". Very well done, right to the point and a message for all in the LP- Gas Industry. I especially enjoyed the chapter, "Ode to a Safety Leader". It brought back many, many fond memories of Norm and our relationship during our years together on the Safety Committee. He really did leave his mark.”

*– Jim Myers, Retired Safety Leader
Past Chairman NPGA Safety Committee*

“I enjoyed your book. It has a common sense approach supported by industry facts, figures and technical stuff. Your use of metaphors and axioms is a fun style and makes for an easy read. Great job.”

– Tony Kuehn, Traveler Risk Control

“Recently received and read your book. It’s a very easy read and it is perfect for those who are doing the actual delivery and service of LP. Great job!”

*– Jeff Arrandale, Underwriting Manager
Nationwide Agribusiness Insurance Company*

“Just finished your book in three days. That’s pretty good for me. Nice job.”

– Doyle Fevig, Fevig Oil

“I want to thank you for introducing me to your new book titled “The Practice of Safety”. This is a “Gotta Read” book for all Managers and Supervisor’s in the propane industry. Anyone who cares about the safety of their employee’s and safety of the customers it serves, will benefit from reading this book.

Thanks Jay, for all you do to make our industry a safer place for all of us! Keep up the good work.”

– Buzz Ahrens, Gas Service Company

“I have always been impressed by your dedication to Safety in the Propane industry. I am even more impressed with your ability to convey information. Your dedication shines through in each speech you make and each article you write.”

– Tim Hendricks, Capitol Propane

“The propane marketer and other companies involved in the propane industry use many sources to obtain product, materials, designs, equipment, financing, training, consumers and employees. The Practice of Safety by Jay Johnston is a unique supply source, which will guide your propane business in the right, profitable and most important safe direction. The topics are current and goals are achievable.”

– Bill Mahre, Propane Technical Service

“It’s a privilege to help spread your knowledge and passion for making the propane industry the safest possible. Never quit caring.”

– Patrick Hyland. Editor, LP Gas Magazine

“I was impressed. It brings real life into an issue that most people really don’t care about and hate the fact that they have to do. It’s an easy thing to put on the back burner because we can’t see the profit that adds to the bottom line. Well done!!!”

– Mitch Vanover, Miles LP Gas

“Four of my employees attended your seminar at the NCPGA mini pinnacle last week and came back to the office with some good ideas and a few copies of your book. I picked up one of their copies and was immediately impressed. I liked the idea of establishing a safety meeting each month verses safety training each month. We started safety training for one hour a month last month and felt we were running out of one-hour topics. I am going to have my service technician, who is our safety instructor, read your book. The two of us are going to establish a 15 minute a month safety meeting to go along with our safety training (CETP, DOT, etc.) Thanks for the information in the book, and I hope to make your next seminar in the area.”

– Chris Stanley, Euliss Propane Company

“I received your book. It is terrific. Congratulations! I know it is something you set out to do. You are very inspirational.”

– Terry Larkin, Risk Management Consultant

“Everyone enjoyed your presentation. From my standpoint it’s always worthwhile to re-define the company commitment to safety by offering such meetings. All the guys enjoyed and like your book. Thanks for coming.

– Ray Nadeau, Polk-Burnett
